

(You might want to print the invitation on nice, pre-designed paper)

(Date)

Dear Friend (or specific name),

I'd like to invite you to an evening discussion about creating community. I'm interested in forming a "Life Makeover" group that will bring together like-minded friends who are interested in improving the quality of their lives. This group (which will be free to all members) could help us to do things like:

- Clarify our priorities
- Improve our financial health
- Set better boundaries
- End procrastination
- Clear up clutter
- Make more time for our self care

And so on . . .

If this idea interests you, then I'd love to have you join us for a discussion on how we might begin. The evening is scheduled for (date), from (xx pm to xx pm), at my home (address). I'll be serving tea and snacks.

Please RSVP by (date). Thanks -- I look forward to hearing from you!

Warmly,

(Your Name)